

Dear friends of psychodrama research,
Dear research committee,

Klagenfurt, 7th July 2011

I just came back from the SPR Conference (Society for Psychotherapy Research) at the University in Bern, where more than 700 researchers from all over the world - were presenting their research in psychotherapy. And - of course - our research committee was well represented too. Thanks to Ines Testoni, Maria Silvia Guglielmin, Galabina Tarashoeva, Gabriela Moita, Jutta Fürst, Fabian Blöbel and Michael Wieser we could present and discuss different psychodrama research projects.

Our next big step this year will be the research symposium on

"Counselling and Psychotherapy

Research in Training and Professional Practice"

23-25th of September at the University of Innsbruck

This symposium is a cooperation between our research committee/ FEPTO and the University of Innsbruck. During this symposium we will have the opportunity to present, discuss and develop our research projects.

In order to meet different needs from the various projects, we have created three different formats of presentations/ workshops:

- 1) projects which are almost or already finished (objectives of the project, the data and the analysis of the data, some results, conclusions etc.)

-2) projects which are work in progress (or which exist as an interesting idea etc.): We will offer a "research intervision lab". In this group we will provide time and space to present the status of the project/ the idea and to develop further steps. The group will work on challenges, questions or problems regarding the project/ the idea etc. Furthermore we will have one research coach who also will try to give support to develop the project/ the idea further.

- 3) small group work for project groups who need the time to develop/ to organize their own project further (like the small group work we had already at our last meetings)

If you think that your project fits into this frame you can tell us what you want to present or discuss. Therefore we need a short description of your presentation/ workshop:

Title of the project:

name/s: who will present/ discuss?

abstract: (8-15 lines about: goals, content, method...)

format: - presentation, - research lab, - small group, (-other format?)

additional information: If you present your research work in progress...
- tell us the questions/ challenges of research you are facing and which you want to address
- tell us if you need any specific support.

!!! Please send these informations until 31st of July !!!

As soon I will get your feedback we can finalize the programme. Please let us know, if you have wishes regarding the programme for the symposium.

best wishes to all of you,

Hannes
